TRAIN JUMPED RAILS

First Wreck on Midland—No One Injured.

Passenger train No. 202 from Altoona, due here at 10 a. m. met with an accident Monday morning at 9:50 o'clock near Cessna. The two coaches, tender and baggage car were derailed but fortunately no one was hurt. The train was delayed two hours.

The cause of the wreck was the dropping off of a nut from the column bolt on one truck of the tender, causing it to leave the track and forcing the train behind to follow. A most remarkable thing was that after the tender and coaches left the track they ran a distance of two lengths of the train before being brought to a standstill, crossing a bridge about 20 feet long. The engineer did not know when the train jumped the track. The engine remained on the rails.

That the coaches ground over the ties on the bridge and did not turn over until after clearing the bridge, accounts for no casualties. The passengers were much shaken and were terror stricken for a moment. The train was on time and was running at a speed of about 30 miles an hour.

Bowling Tournaments

The first of the two big tournaments to be held at the Bedford Springs bowling alleys will begin on Monday next. This is the highest average of ten strings played during the week and the prize is a very handsome cup. There is no limit to the number of games which any player may roll and he may select the ten highest scores he makes during the week from which to strike the average for the prize. We congratulate in advance the fortunate winner of this tournament cup. In addition, the usual weekly cup will be presented for the best score during the week.

Ben Greet Coming to Bedford

It can be stated with almost absolute certainty that Ben Greet and his great company of English players will give two Shakespearean plays at the Springs Tuesday afternoon and evening, July 26. Mr. Greet comes here after 18 weeks in New York, nine weeks in Washington and three weeks in Philadelphia. A few weeks ago he played at the White House for President and Mrs. Taft. There are two Ben Greet Companies on the road, but it is "Company Number One," with Mr. Greet himself, which will come to Bedford. This rare opportunity to see "As You Like It" in the afternoon, and "Midsummer Night's Dream" in the evening, should be taken advantage of by all our citizens.

PHYSICIANS ASSEMBLE

County Medical Society Holds Meeting and Banquet.

The regular meeting of the Bedford County Medical Society was held here on Wednesday and was attended by the following members: Doctors A. and W. F. Enfield, S. H. Gump and W. C. Miller, of Bedford; E. L. Smith of Schellsburg, H. I. Shoenthal of New Paris, Paul Eaton of Pleasantville, C. W. Gensimore of New Enterprise, W. P. S. Henry, W. E. Nycum and Walter Hill, of Everett; J. G. Hanks of Ray's Hill, J. W. Lindsey of Imbler and A. H. Evans of Saxton.

The Doctors dined together at the Grand Central, where they had as guests Dr. Nason of the Nason Sanitarium, Roaring Spring, who, during and gave a surgical clinic; and M. J. Bouse who represented the State Department of Health. The meeting was interesting and instructive. Dr. Frantz delivered a lecture on the history and treatment of tuberculosis and Dr. Hill, County Medical Inspector, spoke along the line of his work.

Death by Drowning

Miss Mary Knisely, aged about 46 years, was found drowned early Wednesday forenoon, July 13, on her father's farm in Colerain Township, about one mile from Charlesville. Being a sufferer from epilepsy, she was seized with an attack while at the brook and falling into the water her face was submerged; life was extinct when the body was found.

Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Knisely, and several brothers and sisters survive: Samuel of Friend's Cove, Burton and Minnie, at home; Clayton, William and Mrs. Harry Haviland, of Ohio.

Rev. Harry Dollman will have charge of the funeral services, which will be held in the Brick Church at 10 o'clock this morning. Interment in the graveyard adjoining.

WAR ON PLAGUE

Being Waged by State Department of Health

TUBERCULOSIS EXHIBIT

At This Place During the Week Was Both Interesting and Instructive.

The tuberculosis exhibit by the State Department of Health held at the Court House this week attracted considerable attention. It was in charge of Dr. M. J. Bouse of Harrisburg and Miss Mary Sullivan, trained nurse.

Few, if any of the features of the exhibit attract more interest than the relief model of the grounds and buildings of the Pennsylvania State South Mountain Sanatorium near Mont Alto. It shows so graphically the wonderful region of mountain pines and breeze-swept, sun-bathed plateau where Pennsylvania's tuberculosis poor are being cared for.

This reservation comprises 650 acres, and is located in Franklin county, near Mont Alto, on a plateau of the Blue mountains, with an average elevation of about 1800 feet above the sea level. Its topography and climatic conditions render it particularly well adapted for the treatment of tuberculosis, while its geographical location makes it readily accessible from all parts of the state. This sanatorium had its inception in an appropriation by the legislature of Pennsylvania in 1903 of the sum of $8000 to the Commissioner of Forestry, to be used for the treatment of tuberculosis sufferers, and a further appropriation in 1905 of $15,000.

The lands devoted to the purpose were a part of a large area (55,000 acres) which had been purchased by the state for a forest reservation. Upon this a number of small shacks were erected, and on June 1, 1907, at which time the management and control were transferred to the Pennsylvania State Department of Health, twenty-eight patients were under the care of the Forestry Commissioner.

The area is sufficiently large to afford a scheme of development which permits the classification and segregation of patients of different types or degrees of infection. It is so designed, also, to supply light, open-air employment to those physically capable of performing the same, while the large state forest reservation adjacent insures the sanatorium from all undesirable surroundings.

The water supply is collected from mountain springs on the state reservation. The spring heads are all walled over that they may not be exposed to any pollution. The water is then carried in cast-iron pipes to a pumping well, and from there it is forced into a large reservoir with sufficient capacity to supply the entire camp with water for two months in case of drought. The height of the reservoir is sufficient to give ample pressure in case of fire. The ice is collected from an ice dam, and sufficient storage capacity is provided in an icehouse to meet all requirements. The ground applicable for farming comprises an area of about one hundred acres. The accommodations, as shown on this model, provide for 500 patients, but they are being rapidly extended to meet the demands for admission. The cottages are designed to accommodate eight patients each. They are nearly square, measuring 27x24 feet, with a central hall 5 feet 8 inches in width, which is enlarged in the centre for heating and lavatory purposes. Ventilation is secured by jacketing the stovepipe and having a ventilating loft. Two patients occupy each room, which is so arranged as to secure an ample supply of fresh air, with proper protection against storms. The cottages are so placed that each face will receive the sun's rays at some time during the day. This model cottage which is being used for incipient cases at Mont Alto was designed by Health Commissioner Dixon. So much impressed with it was Dr. Panwitz, the distinguished German health official, who attended the recent International Tuberculosis Congress in Washington, that he requested Dr. Dixon to let him have all the plans of the cottage that he might make use of them in his own country. The patients, however, rest during the day in ample pavilions. The diningroom is a large, well-constructed building, originally built to accommodate 500, but will be extended as needed. The infirmary for the accommodation of the incurable cases is beautifully situated in the pines, but apart from the other buildings. There are bath and toilet houses at convenient distances, and a sewage disposal plant that is as perfect as modern sanitary engineering can make it.

Masons Receive Instruction
Grand Tyler Joslyn, an instructor in the Masonic school at Philadelphia, was in Bedford Tuesday and Wednesday of this week teaching the secret work of the fraternity to local Masons.

OPERATOR KILLED

Jesse V. Burkett Struck by B. & O. Train.

Jesse V. Burkett, aged 18 years, a telephone operator at State Line, was struck by a B. & O. passenger train on the Connelville division in the Narrows near Cumberland shortly after noon last Friday, July 8, and was instantly killed.

The young man, with his cousin, Frank Burkett, the latter 12 years of age, had been in the city, made some purchases, and were on their way to State Line when the accident occurred. They were walking between the tracks when train No. 6 hove in view and in some way Jesse stepped in front of the engine, which struck him, crushing his life out. The body was taken to Cumberland and later to his parents' home at Mann's Choice.

Deceased was a son of Samuel C. and Annie J. Burkett and was born in Juniata Township on December 17, 1891. He studied telegraphy at Mann's Choice and at the time of his death was employed as operator at State Line, his first position.

Besides his parents, the following brothers and sisters survive him: Norman, Nicholas, Paul, Ray, Avoline and Mabel. The body was brought to Bedford Monday morning and funeral services held in St. Thomas' Catholic Church, being conducted by Rev. Father Downes. Interment in the cemetery at this place. The family has the sympathy of the community in their bereavement.

Adam P. Hammaker

Adam P. Hammaker, of whose death on the Bedford and Hollidaysburg Railroad beyond Cessna on July 7 mention was made last week, was born on the old homestead in East St. Clair Township on October 5, 1875, hence was aged 34 years, nine months and two days.

Mr. Hammaker was unmarried but is survived by the following brothers and sisters: S. A. and S. L. Hammaker and Mrs. W. F. Berkheimer, of East St. Clair Township; Mrs. G. W. Whitestone of New Berlin, O., and Meecham Hammaker of Philadelphia.

The funeral services were conducted in the Reformed Church at Fishertown, of which deceased was a consistent member for a number of years, Saturday forenoon, July 9, conducted by Rev. E. A. G. Hermann.

Mr. Hammaker was quiet and unassuming but faithful and loyal in all things. He was industrious and thoroughly trustworthy; in short a good, loyal citizen.

Levi L. Putt

Levi L. Putt died on Monday, July 11, at his home in Stonerstown, at the age of 78 years, five months and 24 days. He underwent an operation about two weeks ago and was not able to survive the shock.

Deceased was a son of Abel Putt and was born in Liberty Township. His father was one of the first men to convey coal, etc., on the Raystown by means of arks or barges, and also opened the first coal mine at Coalmont.

He was married to Miss Elizabeth Norris on September 6, 1853, who, with five children, survives, as follows: H. N. Putt and Mrs. J. N. Hoover, of Huntingdon; Mrs. J. O. Reed of Phillipsburg, and Mrs. A. C. Mullin and Miss Alice Putt, of Saxton.

The funeral was held at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, with interment in the Fockler Cemetery.

Penny Closes Up Yards

Altoona, July 12.—The Penny's Hollidaysburg freight classification yards were closed yesterday, on an order from General Manager Myers and the repair shops there closed for the time being. Forty shovemen were suspended, and six freight crews, or 26 men, laid off. The reason assigned is the continued dullness in freight traffic, which is also responsible for the large number of idle cars being stored along the lines, 9,000 awaiting western call, while in the Hollidaysburg yards are 2,500 more. Four hundred men were suspended in the shops here yesterday, 200 on locomotive repairs and 200 on car repairs.

Miller-Cori

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Allison in West St. Clair Township was the scene of a pretty wedding recently when their daughter, Mrs. Rachel Cori, was married to George F. Miller of near Lovely by Rev. J. W. Zehring of Osterburg. Miss Hattie McDonald was bridesmaid and Edgar Hartel, groomsmen. After the ceremony a 6 o'clock dinner was served, at which about thirty guests were present.

M. P. Heckerman, who has been writing at various times about paved streets for Bedford, has secured and placed with the Street Committee letters and statistics from other towns on the subject. One of them is from W. S. Cessna, President of the First National Bank of Cadiz, O., a former Bedford boy.

VOTE TO STRIKE

P. R. R. Employees Almost Unanimous in Their Action.

Nearly 13,000 out of 14,000 union trainmen and conductors of the Pennsylvania Railroad lines east of Pittsburgh have voted in favor of a strike if the company does not grant their demands for more pay. Similar action was taken by employees on the lines west of Pittsburgh.

When the count of the vote on the lines east was completed, the union leaders went to General Manager W. Heyward Myers of the Pennsy, told him the result and restated their demands. He "stood pat" on his refusal to grant the present rate of wages, with payment for all overtime, which is the principal demand of the men. At the request of the union leaders that he consider the matter and meet them again, Mr. Myers acquiesced, but made no promise to accept any proposition which the men may offer.

The strike vote, as reported by A. B. Garretson, President of the Order of Railway Conductors, and W. G. Lea of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, showed a total of 14,194 votes cast, with 12,781 in favor of a strike.

Separating the two organizations involved, the vote was: Conductors, 1,863 yes, 440 no; trainmen, 10,918 yes, 965 no.

The demand of the union leaders on which the ballot was taken was for a standard day of ten hours, as set for the employees of the New York Central Railroad by the arbitrators in their wage dispute. Trainmen and conductors on the Pennsylvania lines get wages as high and in some instances higher than are paid men in similar positions on other lines, and they work a day of eleven hours. But the union leaders want the ten-hour day, and ask the same amount of pay as they receive now for eleven hours.

In answering the demands of the men made by President Garretson at the conference Wednesday afternoon, General Manager Myers declared that the present condition of business will not warrant the company paying any wage increase. He declared that the company is willing to meet the conditions on other roads if by so doing it shall not be forced to increase its expenditures.

HOPE

Sweet flowers of Hope, within whose cup
Life's only nectar lies,
You spring along her winding ways,
An angel in disguise.

You blossom by the open bars
That fence her turning lane;
Though flowers be withered in the past,
Beyond you bloom again.

I find you in the crowded mart,
And in the busy street,
Thou'rt cherished deep within the heart
Of everyone I meet.

So through the teeming world we go,
Where wrong will blight and blast;
No one but must your sweetness know,
And hope until the last.

$3.50 RECIPE CURES WEAK KIDNEYS FREE

Relieves Urinary and Kidney Troubles, Backache, Straining, Swelling, Etc.

Stops Pain in the Bladder, Kidneys and Back.

Wouldn't it be nice within a week or so to begin to say goodbye forever to the scalding, dribbling, straining, or too frequent passage of urine; the forehead and the back-of-the-head aches; the growing muscle weakness; spots before the eyes; yellow skin; sluggish bowels; swollen eyelids or ankles; leg cramps; unnatural short breath; sleeplessness and the despondency?

I have a recipe for these troubles that you can depend on, and if you want to make a quick recovery, you ought to write and get a copy of it. Many a doctor would charge you $3.50 just for writing this prescription, but I have it and will be glad to send it to you entirely free. Just drop me a line like this: Dr. A. B. Robinson, K 321 Luck Building, Detroit, Mich., and I will send it by return mail in a plain envelope. As you will see when you get it, this recipe contains only pure, harmless remedies, but it has a great healing and pain-conquering power.

It will quickly show its power once you use it, so I think you had better see what it is without delay. I will send you a copy free—you can use it and cure yourself at home.

Persian Embroidery

The craze for Persian effects has invaded the realm of fancy work, and one of the most popular pieces is cream canvas worked with a new thread called iris pompadour.

This comes in a ball, and instead of being a solid color, it is dyed in a variety of shades on the Persian tints, so instead of buying a number of balls one can get all the necessary colors in one ball.

The designs are stamped for cross stitch and when worked produce a Persian effect. Scarfs, bureau covers, cushion tops, table covers and mats are decorated in this way and finished with deep hemstitching.

The Care of Butter

When the ice supply gives out, or you cannot get it, invert a large unglazed crock or jar over the butterplate and keep it in the dark until time for using. The vessel being porous will keep the butter solid especially if a little water is poured around it in the dish where you have it and a damp cloth is wrapped around the crock or jar.

THE SECRET OUT

"What made my lovely complexion? I do not like to tell, for it was medicine, but the nicest a woman ever took. It was Lane's Family Medicine that did it." This is a pleasant herb tea which acts favorably on the stomach and bowels, purifying the blood and cleansing the skin like magic. It cures headache and backache. Druggists and dealers sell it, 25c.

Repairing Sheets and Towels

Sheets, as they begin to wear, should be turned sides to middle. Sew the selvages neatly, not drawing the thread too tight, or there will be a hard seam. In this way the middle part, which has had all the wear, will come to the sides. When economy is studied it is advisable to treat towels in the same way.

SPEARING THE CACTUS.

Customs of the Natives of the Mexican State of Sinaloa.

Sinaloa is a long state, comparable almost with Chile, as it lies along the west coast of Mexico, just as Chile lies along the Pacific shore of South America.

Like most new countries, the most interesting part of this fertile state is its inhabitants, possibly because the country is so fertile. Game is abundant and easily caught, and the fruit of the great pithaya cactus is ripe almost from season to season. Every native, whether mounted or afoot—and most natives ride—carries a slender stick ten feet long, sharpened at one end and the point hardened with fire.

One supposes these sticks to be rather primitive lances until one sees the Indian spear a cactus fruit from a branch seven or eight feet above his head. These pithayas contain many seeds and a little blood red pulp, all of which, except the spines, is food for the Indian.

All day long these Indian men wander through the jungle, a wall of green broken only here and there by the old trails of half wild cattle, gathering the cactus fruit. It would seem that some would be dried or at least taken to the brush facal, which represents home to the Indian. But no; he sits down and eats what he gathers immediately. If his wife wants any of the fruit she goes and gets it herself. She also gathers the food for the babies.—Forest and Stream.

IT DIDN'T CURE HIM.

Why One Man Has a Distinct Dislike For Buttermilk.

"When I was a youngster," said a state official the other day, "I was poisoned by an Ivy vine. My nose got very red and swelled up twice its natural size. The infection spread to my cheeks, and they were all covered with blotches.

"I was told to use buttermilk. I bought a gallon and drank it. I bought another gallon the next day and got outside of that. In fact, I drank so much buttermilk that the price went up about 15 cents a gallon in that community within a very few days. But the poisoning was not getting any better. It was not improving one bit, and I couldn't understand it.

"I told the people who had recommended the buttermilk that it was not helping me. 'Why, I bet I have swallowed a barrel of buttermilk within the past week,' I told them.

"'You drank it?' they shouted back at me.

"'Of course,' I replied. 'What did you expect me to do with it?'

"'Why, we meant for you to bathe your face with buttermilk, not drink it,' was the answer.

"I pretty nearly collapsed. To this day I can't look buttermilk in the face."—Kansas City Journal.

Paraguay Lace.

Making lace by hand is a well developed art in Paraguay. It was taught the natives 200 years ago by the missionaries and has been transmitted from generation to generation till it is now quite general throughout the republic. Some towns are devoted to making a certain kind of lace. In one town of 8,000 or 9,000 inhabitants almost all the women and children and many of the men make lace collarets, handkerchiefs and ladies' ties. Another town makes lace embroidery and others draw thread work, such as centerpieces, tray mats, tablecloths and doilies. The designs used in making the lace are taken from the curious webs of the semitropical spiders that are so numerous there. On this account it is called "manduti," an Indian name which means spider web.

Preaching and Practice.

W. S. Gilbert on one certain occasion was on a visit to a friend, the owner of a fine English country house. On the morning after his arrival he was chatting with his host before breakfast when he became suddenly aware that family prayers were about to be read. The household tied in, and the distinguished guest knelt down on the spot where he happened to be standing. Looking up, he caught his host's eye fixed on him with a warning glance, which he, however, failed to read aright. The service began, "Almighty Father, who hast made all men alike" (more telegraphic glances) "rich and poor, gentle and simple" then unable to contain himself any longer, the host called out, "Gilbert, you are kneeling among the servants."

Why He Smiled.

Magistrate (to prisoner)—You are charged with having beaten your wife. Prisoner (smiling). Quite right, your worship. The charge is correct.

Magistrate—Then what are you smiling at?

Prisoner—I may well smile. We have been married five years, and in all the fights we've had this is the first time she hasn't been able to give me a jolly good hiding. Have a cigar, judge? —London Scraps.

Our National Game.

"The raw American citizen," says Ellis Parker Butler in Success Magazine, "who takes his seat at a ball game for the first time feels as he would should he drop into the Metropolitan Opera House and find himself hearing Wagnerian opera from a seat in the midst of seasoned German opera goers. He hears a language that is new to him. The man at his right can tell more about the first baseman's peculiarities than he could tell about the manners of his own wife. The man at his left has trouble remembering the size collar he wears, but he can name every man in every club of both major leagues, tell the age of each, give the complete table of batting records offhand and recite, item by item, every feature of every game played on the home grounds during the last five years. That is why baseball is our national game. We love the game not because we are Chicagoans and the Chicago nine wins nor because we are Pittsburghers and the Pittsburgh nine is winning, but because we are educated in baseball and like to see a good game played by the best men in their field that can be found in the world."

Her Father's Job.

The young daughter of a popular Chicago clergyman some time ago manifested a quick wit. Her father had gone on a brief holiday with a business parishioner and associate, and the talk of the children turned on the problem of which father needed the rare rest most sorely.

"Well, I think my father works the hardest," said little Miss Business, "and his work keeps him stirred up and anxious most of the time."

"Your father may work the hardest in one way," was little Miss Clergyman's answer, at once thoughtful and diplomatic, "but I think he gets more rest as he goes along. You see, he can let down a little evenings and Sundays, and if he gets cross and nervous nobody says anything. But my daddy has to be better than ever Sundays and evenings, because then everybody's taking notice and the whole lot of us children are around."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Shortened His Wait.

"Experience," said Mark Twain once, "makes us wise, but it also makes us hard. Consider the old, experienced man in the busy restaurant. He took a seat looked round him and, pointing to a well dressed gentleman who had not yet been served, said to the waiter:

"'Waiter, how long has that gentleman been here?'

"'About twelve minutes, sir,' the waiter answered.

"'What's his order?'

"'Porterhouse and French fried, sir, with mince pie and coffee to come.'

"'The old man, hardened by experience, slipped a quarter in the waiter's hand.

"'Waiter,' he said, 'I'm in a hurry. Put on another porterhouse and bring me his.'"

Parisian Sage is an exhilarating and pleasant hair dressing, it is not sticky or greasy and it makes the hair soft, beautiful and luxuriant.

Care of Cucumbers

Cucumbers for pickling may be planted as late as the middle of July.

Bordeaux mixture three ounces to a gallon of water is an effective remedy for the yellow-striped beetle which attacks cucumbers, melons and squashes in the early summer, and is also the preventive for blight.

If you have only a few vines the bugs may be brushed into a shallow pan and at once transferred to a pan of water containing a tablespoonful of kerosene, which finishes them. This can be done very early in the morning or after sundown. They are very active during sunning, but semi-dormant in the early hours of the day.

Sour Apples Whiten the Teeth

Those who make a practice of eating hard, sour apples, chewing them slowly, bit by bit, will have glistening white teeth. One apple a day is sufficient.

FLIES AMONG OATS

And Other Pests; How to Be Rid of Them.

Dean Hunt, of the School of Agriculture of the Pennsylvania State College, referred to State Zoologist H. A. Surface a letter which he received from a Bradford County farmer, who wanted to know what to do to counteract a small fly, which he said has infested his oats fields, and is causing the plants to turn red.

Prof. Surface gave the following information:

"The small fly of which you write is an Aphis, or Plant Louse, which lives by sucking sap from the oats leaves, and there deposits its young. It is popularly called 'The Green Fly' or 'Green Bug.'

"There is really no powder nor dust that will destroy these plant lice, and the only thing that I can recommend is spraying, which would be a very serious problem for oats. It would be possible with a crop sprayer, such as is used to spray potatoes, to spray the oats early in the summer, and kill the pests wherever the liquid strikes them. To do so, I should use one pound of Whale Oil Soap in five gallons of water, or eight per cent. kerosene emulsion, or a strong decoction of tobacco, using one pound of tobacco in two gallons of water."

Hessian Fly in the Wheat

A Berks County farmer sent some infested wheat heads, for information as to their condition. Professor Surface reported in regard to the same as follows:

"The insect which you sent to us on your wheat plant proves to be the Hessian fly. These are infested with parasites, and this leads me to think that the fly will not be bad this summer or next fall. There is no remedy for it at this time of year. To avoid the fall brood, it is best not to plant wheat too soon. I would advise that, at your latitude, you do not plant before the last week of September. If you plant sooner, you are quite liable to injure the wheat by this pest. However, I am hoping that from the evidence of little parasites in these specimens which you sent to us, they may do the work so well that there will not be much fly left in your region to infest the fall planting. Since these are so badly parasitized I would recommend that you do not permit the burning of the stalks or stubble this season."

Damage to Potato Foliage

"Will you please write me what is the matter with the enclosed potato leaves, and send me a cure for the same?"

Thus wrote a lumberman of Marietta in sending some specimens of damaged foliage of potato vines to him for information. The following reply was sent:

"The potato leaves which you sent to us show the chief injury to be the Flea beetles, and, next, what is apparently the Early Blight. The preventive would have been to have sprayed with Bordeaux mixture and arsenate of lead. Even yet it is not too late to prevent further damage from these causes. Use three pounds of bluestone and four pounds of lime in fifty gallons of water, and to this add from two to three pounds of arsenate of lead or one-half pound of Paris green. Spray thoroughly, and whenever it is washed off by hard rain, or once every two or three weeks. If the arsenate of lead is used it need not be repeated as often as in using Paris green. This will also poison the potato leaves, so that the Potato beetles will not attack them."

Snails on Vegetables

A physician of Media, Pa., wrote that his lima beans, bunch beans and other garden vegetables are being destroyed by snails, and he asked for suggestions in regard to killing them. Professor Surface wrote:

"To destroy snails or slugs you should spray with one ounce of arsenate of lead in one gallon of water. Also, mix Paris green, one part, in forty or fifty parts of freshly slaked lime, and dust it about the garden so that it will come in contact with the pests. Slaked lime used freely will drive them away."

"Foley Kidney Pills Have Cured Me"

The above is a quotation from a letter written by H. M. Winkler, Evansville, Ind. "I contracted a severe case of kidney trouble. My back gave out and pained me. I seemed to have lost all strength and ambition; was bothered with dizzy spells, my head would swim and specks float before my eyes. I took Foley Kidney Pills regularly and am now perfectly well and feel like a new man. Foley Kidney Pills have cured me." Ed. D. Heckerman.

Foley's Kidney Remedy will cure any case of kidney and bladder trouble not beyond the reach of medicine. No medicine can do more. Ed. D. Heckerman.

No Man is Stronger Than His Stomach

A strong man is strong all over. No man can be strong who is suffering from weak stomach with its consequent indigestion, or from some other disease of the stomach and its associated organs, which impairs digestion and nutrition. For when the stomach is weak or diseased there is a loss of the nutrition contained in food, which is the source of all physical strength. When a man doesn't feel just right, when he doesn't sleep well, has an uncomfortable feeling in the stomach after eating, is languid, nervous, irritable and despondent, he is losing the nutrition needed to make strength.

Such a man should use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It enriches the blood, invigorates the liver, strengthens the kidneys, nourishes the nerves, and so gives health and strength to the whole body.

ONLY ONE

The Record in Bedford Is a Unique One.

If the reader has a "bad back" or any kidney ill and is looking for relief and cure, better depend on the only remedy endorsed by people you know. Doan's Kidney Pills relieve quickly—cure permanently. Bedford citizens testify to this. Here is a case of it:

Mrs. William Trout, 202 Spring Street, Bedford, Pa., says: "It would be almost impossible to fully describe how intensely I suffered from kidney trouble. I had nearly all the difficulties that accompany a bad case of this disease. My back was extremely painful and I often had dizzy spells, during which spots appeared before my eyes. Finally my ankles and limbs became swollen and my condition caused me much alarm. When my son procured a supply of Doan's Kidney Pills for me at J. R. Dull's Drug Store, I began their use and they did me more good than all the other medicines I had taken put together. I give Doan's Kidney Pills the credit for restoring me to my present good health." (Statement given October 14, 1907.)

Re-Endorsement

Mrs. Trout was interviewed on November 13, 1909, and she said: "It gives me pleasure to again recommend Doan's Kidney Pills. I have taken them occasionally during the past two years with good results and they have also been used by other members of the family with great success."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other. July 15-2t.

Chrysanthemums

Chrysanthemums stand forth in commercial importance among flowers. Only the rose, the violet and the carnation surpass them, and that chiefly because the chrysanthemum season is so short, while the others can be had from the florist nearly the whole year round. Greece gave us the name. Chrysanthemum means "golden flower." But the name was invented long before the big butter yellow globes were known in the accident. It referred to the prevailing gold in the small varieties that were known. Strangely enough, the first chrysanthemum brought into Europe was not gold, but purple. It was a small flower about two inches across, shaped like an aster. Somebody took it to Europe from China in 1790—and, presto, the modern history of chrysanthemums was begun.—Argonaut.

to me one. But he offered to forward the missive, and she accepted the offer. Sufficient time elapsed for a letter to come from almost any part of the globe, but none was received. Months passed, and still no word. The young wife, write in name only, became a broken down woman. It was not the equivocal position in which she stood before the world, but the fact that she loved the man she had treated in a manner which every day seemed to her more unmanly and barbarous. This, added to that dreadful silence, was killing her. She was not sure even that he lived. Her parents, her neighbors, endeavored in every way to draw her from her despondence. Her friends the cowboys gathered in groups to discuss the man whom they considered to blame for her condition, and even debated the question of sending one of their number to find him, wherever he might be and give him the chance of returning to his wife or swallowing a dose of lead.

But no such method of restoring her happiness, of course, ever reached the young wife's ears. She gradually said all those about her began to shake their heads and predict that she would at last fall a victim to her untimely death. The Hayden ranch was a sad sight. The intelligence was kept from her as long as possible, fearing that this breaking the last link that bound her to her husband would have an increased effect upon her. But when the new owner took possession of the property it was impossible that she should be kept in ignorance any longer. A was feared, it destroyed her last hope.

One morning when the daily stage arrived at the relay house Ralph Hayden, hurriedly alighted, ordered a horse and, mounting, galloped away. Half an hour later he was seen to ride into the MacDonald ranch house. The news spread over the neighborhood. The ranchers and the ranchers' families discussed the arrival and wondered what the next move would be. The cowboys convened in special meeting and it was solemnly agreed that if the rancher went away without his departure being satisfactory to his wife they would waylay him and force him to fight each one of them successively till all were killed or he bit the dust. Some of them fingered their revolvers nervously in anticipation.

It was not long, however, before very startling news was given out at the ranch house. Hayden had returned for the bride he had been forced to marry, he was not only Ralph Hayden, but Sir Ralph Hayden and heir to one of the fairest estates in England. Then all the women exclaimed at once: "Goodness, gracious! Kate Mac is Lady Hayden!"

The afternoon this news was circulated the cowboys agreed that they would go in a body to the MacDonald ranch house, learn of its truth, and if it were so give three cheers for Sir Ralph and Lady Hayden. Learning of their intention, many of the neighbors repaired there to see the fun. Lining up before the house, the boys began to call for their favorite. Presently she appeared, leaning on the arm of her husband, pale and thin, but with that same old smile on her lips which had made them her slaves. "A ye manse and cries of 'Toll us about it!' She pointed to her husband, who said: "Boys, it was all a mistake. I made several, and our Kate made one. I let compliments in England interfere with me and my wife's happiness; but, thank God, they are past, and we are all happy."

This brief speech was received by three cheers from the cowboys, assisted by the neighbors present. Then the assembly were invited into the house, and the bottle was passed.

After a few weeks' sojourn the couple left for England, leaving the following explanation.

An English girl with a large estate had agreed to marry Ralph Hayden, a younger son of Sir George Hayden if within a given time he should, through the death of an invalid brother, inherit the title. After his American marriage Ralph Hayden had returned to England and found the girl he had been engaged to marry conditionally had fallen in love with another man, whom she was about to wed. The returned ranchman smarted a long while under the marriage into which he had been forced. Meanwhile his brother lingered in bad health and finally died. Then the new incumbent sailed for America to bring back his wife.

The Still Places

There is help in the still places of life, its retreats, its withdrawals for communion with God and one's own soul. Bereavement is one of the still places of life; disappointment is another; pain is another. We come out of deep bereavements, out of great sickness, out of bewildering losses and disappointments, out of all the seriously arresting experiences of life, if we accept such experiences in the right spirit, with clarified wisdom, with renewed faith, with better adjustment to the Divine plan. At first it may seem, when we are called aside into the still places, like a turning back of life upon itself, an undoing of all its hopes and purposes. But by and by we learn that the still place is instead a place where life gathers itself together, finds itself, heads with new power and usefulness in the direction which God indicates. —Exchange.

Will you come?

A FORCED MARRIAGE

Bred Complications That Were Long In Being Worked Out

By THERESA C. HOLT

Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association

Nothing was known about Ralph Hayden, a young man who bought a small ranch in New Mexico, except that he was an Englishman. He was tall and well formed, with light hair and complexion and blue eyes. This, with a winning smile that uncovered white, regular teeth, made him in appearance very attractive. He had brought $2,000 with him from England, with which he purchased and stocked his ranch.

He had no sooner got settled than the neighboring ranchers called on him and invited him to their homes, but he accepted none of their invitations. This excited a good deal of talk among the women at the different ranch houses, all of whom were curious to know why the handsome Englisher would have nothing to do with them. The general verdict was that he considered himself too good for them. Nevertheless Hayden was hailed fellow well met with all the men and soon became popular alike with ranchers and cowboys.

One day Hayden set out to go to a neighboring ranch. He was walking across a field when a bull espied him and bore down on him from the rear. Hayden, unconscious of his danger, continued on leisurely. Suddenly he saw a horsewoman leap a fence and rush upon him, swinging a lasso as she rode. Not understanding the movement, he stood still, regarding her with wondering eyes. Coming near him, she threw her lasso, but not at him. Turning, he saw that she had thrown the loop around the horns of a bull. Drawing his revolver, he quickly killed the beast.

The next thing he did was to raise his hat in a courtly manner to the woman who had saved his life and offer his thanks. She was a girl about twenty years old. A coil of hair was falling under her sombrero, having been loosened by the jump she had made over the fence. Her costume was a jacket cut Mexican fashion and divided skirts of the same material.

"Had it not been for you," said Hayden, "I would probably now be either dead or dying. The bull would have taken me in the back and broken it. I shall esteem it a favor if you will name the way in which I may best show my gratitude."

"You are Mr. Hayden, I believe?" "I am."

"Do you know what a woman loves best?"

"I do not."

"To get ahead of other women."

"Well?"

"Come and see me."

"You have a charming frankness. I shall certainly call upon you. You must be that Miss MacDonald of whom I have heard so much."

"I am Kate MacDonald. I bid you good morning."

Kate MacDonald was a feminine free lance. She could ride, shoot, hurl a lasso as well as any man in the neighborhood and had a way of looking out of a pair of honest eyes that invited confidence. She was tender hearted in the extreme. She called a spade a spade and had a sovereign contempt for people who said one thing and meant another.

Ralph Hayden called upon her at her father's ranch the same evening. When he arose to go she said to him: "Tomorrow afternoon I shall expect you to ride with me. We will go past the principal ranches hereabout in order that the women may see us together. After that I shall resign all claims upon your attention."

"And I shall not be allowed to visit you again?"

"As often as you like, but not from any obligation to do so."

A month later one evening Ralph Hayden, after pacing the floor for an hour, swayed by conflicting emotions, went to Kate MacDonald's home, told her that he loved her so deeply that he could run himself for her and begged her to marry him.

"What do you mean by ruining your self for me?" she asked.

"I am pledged to marry a girl in England."

Kate started. This was indeed a blow. Her sense of honor revolted at his deserting another for her.

"Does she love you very much?" she asked.

"I don't know. I suppose she loves me, though the marriage is to be under certain contingencies."

"What are they? No, don't tell me. Go away. I need time to think this over."

He obeyed the order. For several days there was no communication between them. Then he wrote her, recalling all he had said, closing with the words: "I was demented. There is but one path for me to follow, and only a fool and a knave would follow any other."

No answer came to this. One evening about a week later Kate MacDonald, attended by half a dozen cowboy friends and a parson, rode up to Ralph Hayden's ranch house. All dismounted and entered. One of the cowboys acted as spokesman:

"Anything Kate MacDonald wants goes. She's made up her mind to marry you. If you decline you run a gantlet and other such torture as Indians use. Here's a man to do the job." He pointed to the parson.

"I'm not afraid of your torture," said Hayden, "but I'm ready to go through the ceremony."

Not a word was spoken by the contracting couple except to make the replies required by the marriage service. When it was over Kate MacDonald led the way out, and all mounted then horses and rode away.

The next day Hayden disappeared. From this time forward Kate MacDonald, or Kate Hayden, was a changed woman. She no longer galloped over the country taking fences and ditches by the way. She never attended any of the social gatherings held among the neighboring ranchers. The only feature eminent before her marriage she retained was her tender solicitude for those who were in trouble. The Hayden ranch remained in care of a keeper, who offered it for sale. Nothing was heard of its owner. A year passed. By that time Kate Hayden had come to see her act in its true light and wrote a letter to her husband, telling him that if he wished to be free from her she could easily obtain a divorce on the ground of desertion. Not knowing where to send her letter, she asked the keeper of the Hayden ranch for her husband's address. He told her that he had been instructed to give it

Two folded hands, the failing breath,

And peace at last—and that is death.

Just dreaming, loving, dying so.

HUSTON CASE AGAIN

Argument for New Trial Hinges On First Verdict.

Harrisburg, July 14.—Despite the onslaught made on the court's charge to the jury in the Huston conspiracy case, and the allegations by Huston's counsel that the court overstepped the bounds in explaining evidence to the jury, it is evident that the convicted man's attorneys are going to pin their faith to obtain his eventual acquittal on the fact that the jury first brought in a verdict of not guilty of conspiracy, but guilty of fraud, and was sent back to the jury room by the court to revise that verdict.

The argument in the motion for a new trial for Architect Joseph M. Huston, convicted of conspiracy to defraud the state in connection with furnishing the new capitol, took up the entire time of the court yesterday. A notable fact was that the foreman of the jury that convicted Huston and seven of the jurors were in court, the foreman saying he had been subpoenaed, but he did not know what for.

It was rumored that an attempt would be made to show by these seven jurors that the first verdict of not guilty of conspiracy had been fairly agreed upon, but, if so, the attempt did not materialize. The jurors were not called.

George S. Graham alone spoke for Huston, criticizing the court's charge to the jury and ending with a reference to the verdict, holding in the very strongest terms that a verdict delivered orally, as was the first one, in the Huston case, should stand and be received by the court.

"I say it was legal coercion," said the attorney, impressively. "The fact is that a perfectly good, true, honest verdict was found and orally delivered."

Judge Kunkle asked how the foreman could say that Huston was not guilty of conspiracy when it was not written on the indictment as the finding, and Judge McCarrell said that it seemed to him that the written verdict was what was agreed upon in the room, not what the foreman said.

James Scarlet, for the state, declared that the defendant had enjoyed a fair trial and asserted that the day had come when Pennsylvanians had shown that they were not corrupt and contented, but that aroused public sentiment would not permit footling of the public treasury. He devoted himself largely to proof of the assertion that the court's charge to the jury was perfectly proper and would stand the test.

Both sides were given until August 1 to file additional pleas and answers. Should a new trial not be granted the case will go to the Superior Court, and stress laid upon the jury's two verdicts to secure a renewal.

A Free Scholarship

Any young man or woman who is a bona fide patron of this paper may secure free instruction in Music or Elocution.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Output From P-Nut Factory

The new P-Nut factory is about finished. It is fitted up with the latest improved and best machinery. Mr. Heckerman now roasts 60 bushels every forty minutes, or 300 bushels every day—some p-nuts, eh! These are all packed, most of them while still hot, and leave the factory the same day. He makes about 1,000 pounds of salted each day. He has his own electric light plant; five printing presses going from 7 a. m. till 6 p. m. do the work in that line. To look in at the forty-five girls working one sees a very busy place. When you call read the notice at office door.

THE BARGAIN CHASE.

American Women and the Shopping Game Mania.

More money is wasted every year by women buying needless things under the excitement of the bargain hunt than is spent in all the gambling houses and race tracks put together, says Mary Henton Vorse in Success Magazine. When you say that I have no statistics to prove this I answer that I have common sense and have spent much time in city shops. I know, too, what I am capable of, and I am but a half-hearted hunter. I know what my friends do. It isn't for nothing that I have seen earnest young students of economics succumb to this hunting instinct and fare forth to buy ninety-eight cent undergarments.

It is not only in the stores frequented by poor or uneducated women that I have seen the more brutal instincts of the human race come to the surface. I have seen a charming looking elderly woman in a high class store snatch a dress length of gray voile from the hands of another elderly woman, and the reason I happened to see these sights was because I myself was at the sale looking at garments I didn't want and didn't need and buying them.

The bargain chase, the shopping game passion or sport, life work or recreation—for it may be any one of these, according to the temperament of the woman—has American women well in its grip. Hardly one of us escapes some one of the psychological deviations from the normal which I have mentioned.

READ HIS FACE.

The Youthful Amateurs Were Sure He Was a Philanthropist.

They were youthful enthusiasts in physiognomy. On the seat opposite in the trolley was a man of commanding figure, massive brow and serious expression. "Splendid face" one of them explained. "What do you suppose his life work has been?"

"A lawyer?" suggested the other.

"No-o; there's too much benevolence in that face for a lawyer."

"Maybe a banker?"

"Oh, no! A man with an expression like that couldn't have spent his life in merely turning over money."

"He might be an editor."

"An editor! Cutting and slashing his enemies at every turn and even his friends occasionally for the sake of a smart paragraph? You can't read faces. That man's a philanthropist or engaged in some sort of public spirited work. Why, there isn't a line that doesn't indicate strength of purpose and nobility! Look at that curve there on the left!"

At the next station an old countryman took his seat beside the man with massive brow and soon entered into a conversation with him, in the course of which he asked the latter "what was his line."

The two opposite held their breath in the intensity of their interest.

"Oh, I've got a little tavern and butcher shop back in the country a bit!" was the proud reply. "My wife tends to the meals and I do my own killing."—Youth's Companion.

Picture Forgeries.

There are three or four times as many Corots in existence as the French painter produced in his lifetime. He lived to be nearly eighty, but at Montmartre his posthumous canvases are still being turned out to meet the demands of the market. The old masters never die. They are still working overtime in the back rooms of Florence and Rome. At Cologne the manufacture of genuine medieval metal work and antique carving is a thriving industry. These foreign forgers may be scamps, but their tireless energy also testifies to the reverence in which posterity holds the great names of bygone periods. If they are not so highly prized, what inducements would there be for anybody to waste time, paint and muscle in creating fraudulent copies and imitations and passing them off under false pretenses? Our millionaire collectors are not constantly exposed to the risk of buying high priced forgeries where the original is 1,000 times the value.—New York World.

IN FASHION'S REALM.

Economy in Face Veils—Quaint Youthful Motor Bonnets.

When money is scarce there seems nothing that runs away with the long green so fast as veils. Their life is a very short lived one. The truest economy is to buy fine net by the yard. It cuts to better advantage, and you get four veils for the price of one.

The delightfully quaint and pretty motor bonnets that are conspicuous in the outfit displays are especially adapted to the young girl, though many of her elders find them trying.

The single breasted coat that is half fitting is always smart for young girls and small, slender women. The model illustrated will be found desirable for the suit and for the general wrap.

JUDIC CHOLLET

This May Manton pattern is cut for girls fourteen, sixteen and eighteen years of age. Send 10 cents to this office, giving number 663, and it will be promptly forwarded to you by mail. If in haste send an additional two cent stamp for letter postage which insures more prompt delivery.

WHAT TO WEAR.

The Popularity of Elastic Belts.

Semi-ready to Wear Dresses.

Decidedly the most popular belt is the one of elastic, and a woman can buy these at any price. A nice look or belt for mourning is in black chiffon, elastic.

Among the semi-ready for wear dresses shown in the shops is a frock that differs entirely from the so called robe dress because it is in princess effect, yet can be finished to suit any figure.

Summer gowns made with pointed tunic are much worn, and with this skirt there is a simple blouse cut in one with the sleeves that is most attractive. The skirt includes a five gored upper portion, to which the straight flounce is attached. One this is the tunic.

JUDIC CHOLLET

These May Manton patterns are cut in sizes for the blouse from 34 to 42 inches bust measure and skirt sizes from 22 to 36 inches waist measure. Send 10 cents each for these patterns to this office, giving numbers—blouse 663 and skirt 662—and they will be promptly forwarded to you by mail. If in haste send an additional two cent stamp for letter postage, which insures more prompt delivery.

Cook in Comfort

You no longer need wear yourself out with the weakening heat of an intensely hot kitchen. You can cook in comfort. Here is a stove that gives no outside heat. All its heat is concentrated at the burners. An intense blue flame (hotter than either white or red) is thrown upwards but not around. All the heat is utilized in cooking—none in outside heating.

New Perfection Oil Cook-stove entirely removes the discomfort of cooking. Apply a match and immediately the stove is ready. Instantly an intense heat is projected upwards against the pot, pan, kettle or boiler, and yet there is no surrounding heat—no smell—no smoke.

Cautionary Note: Be sure you get this stove—see that the name-plate reads "New Perfection."

The Atlantic Refining Company
(Incorporated)

Why? Because The New Perfection Oil Cook-Stove is scientifically and practically perfect. You cannot use too much wick—it is automatically controlled. You get the maximum heat—no smoke. The burner is simple. One wipe with a cloth cleans it—consequently there is no smell.

The New Perfection Oil Cook-Stove is wonderful for year-round use, but especially in summer. Its heat operates upward to pan, pot, or kettle, but not beyond or around. It is useless for heating a room.

It has a Cabinet Top with shelf for keeping plates and food hot. It has long turquoise-blue enamel chimneys. The nickel finish, with the bright blue of the chimneys, makes the stove ornamental and attractive. Made with 1, 2 and 3 burners; the 2 and 3-burner stoves can be had with or without Cabinet.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL.

Lesson III.—Third Quarter, For
July 17, 1910.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, Matt. xvi. 13-28.
Memory Verse, 26—Golden Text,
Matt. xvi. 28—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. H. Heckerman.

Since He said to the Pharisees, "Can ye not discern the signs of the times?" (verse 3) is it not probable that it might profit by a similar question? For there is great need of men understanding the times, knowing what believers ought to do (1 Chron. xii. 32).

We need also to beware of the leaven of false doctrine, which seems to be fast leaving the lump. But many are more concerned with bread for the body than with the Living Bread, which alone can nourish the soul, so that our Lord has still to say, "Do ye not yet understand? How is it that ye do not understand?" (Verses 9, 11.) When He had finished the parables of the kingdom He said, "Have ye understood all these things?" (xvii. 1.) As it is through faith that we understand (Heb. xi. 3), His question at least includes the other, "Do ye believe these things?"

"Whom say ye that I am?" (verse 13) or, as He put it in xvi. 42, "What think ye of Christ?" is the most important question that could be asked any one. What we think of a particular doctrine is a minor matter, for a right view of Christ Himself will rectify all else. His right views of His suffering and His glory, Peter's reply, "Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God" (verse 16), was the right thing to say. Hear him say it again in John vi. 68, and hear Martha say it in John xi. 27. Yet this did not fully establish either Peter or Martha, although it was a heaven revealed truth, because they did not grasp the suffering which it included. Not only does Jesus rejoice with Simon that God had revealed this to him, but He speaks for the first time of His church not as something which He had been building, but in these words "Upon this rock I will build My church" (verse 18).

He said, "Thou art Peter [petros, a little rock], and upon this rock [petra; a solid ledge] I will build My church." Not Peter, but the great truth of Peter's confession, is the rock, the solid foundation. See his own testimony in 1 Pet. ii. 6, 7. The building of this church, or called out company from Jews and gentiles does not depend upon our faithfulness, for hath He said and shall He not do it? But He is willing to use all who are willing to be used, and every living stone may bring other stones. The consummation is sure, whoever may or may not be, and the pearl, the church, shall be glorious and without spot or wrinkle or any such thing (Eph. v. 26).

What a comfort it is that no wisdom from the pit, no unbelief or science called Christian or aught else can ever prevail against it! Peter was commissioned to open the door both to Jews and gentiles into the present age mystery of the kingdom. See Pentecost and the house of Cornelius. Note the keys of the kingdom, not the keys of the church. The power of binding and loosing was shared by the other disciples (Matt. xviii. 18; John xx. 23). (C. I. S.) A business man on the road is in a sense the firm which he represents, and his transactions are in the name of the firm. So every believer is commissioned in the name of the Lord Jesus, in the power of the Spirit, to take the word of God and show sinners their sins and point them to the Saviour. And if they receive Him the believer is authorized to show them in the word the result of their receiving Him or otherwise.

The disciples had been proclaiming Jesus as the Christ—i. e. the covenant King of a kingdom promised to the Jews and "at hand." The church, on the contrary, must be built upon testimony to Him as crucified, risen from the dead, ascended and made "head over all things to the church" (Eph. i. 20-23). (C. I. S.) The kingdom being postponed, the age of the mystery of the kingdom having been described, the church mentioned and its building assured, He now tells them plainly that He must suffer, be killed by the Jewish rulers and be raised again the third day (verse 21; xvii. 23; xx. 19). Peter, who had declared the rock foundation truth on which the church is to be built, now dares in all his love for Him to say that He must not talk so, must not think of being so ill treated. "Be it far from Thee, Lord, this shall not be unto Thee" (verse 22), or, as in the margin, "Pray Thee, Lord." Thus is Peter blind to all the Scriptures concerning His sufferings and speaks as from the wisdom of man rather than from the Spirit, as before. When filled with the Spirit of God no one had more to say about the sufferings of Christ and our suffering with Him than this same Peter. See his first epistle. Our Lord then added His oft repeated words concerning Himself, taking up the cross, following Him, losing one's life in order to save it (Matt. x. 37-38; Luke xiv. 24, 26; John xii. 25).

There is no such thing in Scripture as a beautiful cross, a cross of gold or flowers. It is always a cruel cross, which suggests a lingering death, and if we are true followers of Jesus there must be a constant dying to self that the life of Jesus may be made manifest in us (1 Cor. ix. 10, 11).

I received a call that would give me no more salary, but I considered the field a better one than the one I occupied. I wished to be a worker as well as a preacher. In the parish where I was there were few poor people and consequently little good to be done among those who most need, to my thinking a clergyman. I accepted the call and the evening before my departure for my new field called upon the young lady who had shown so much appreciation of my intellectual endowments. I had some new and, as I thought, of great points to bring up by which I hoped to leave a final impression.

Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same great remedy. The mild and the immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It is sold by druggists, in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also a pamphlet telling all about Swamp-Root, including many of the thousands of testimonials received from sufferers who found Swamp-Root to be just the remedy needed. In writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure and mention this paper. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

The child, the donkey and the fowls soon died, but the goats helped the women to survive, their milk supplementing the thirty or forty cakes a day the pocketful of chestnuts upon which they depended for food. Hope of finding the women alive had been abandoned when far in April the brother of one had a dream in which she appealed to him for rescue.

The weather then at last made excavation possible, and the women were restored to the world and presently to health.—Chicago News.

The English administration at Gibraltar, where water is very scarce, collects dew by the following very simple method: A large pit is dug in the earth and covered with dry wood or straw, which in turn is covered either with earth or with sheet iron. The straw or wood serves as a heat insulator and effectually prevents the conduction of heat from the ground to the layer of earth or the sheet iron above. Consequently this earth or iron cools after sunset much more rapidly than the ground, so that its temperature soon falls below the dew point of the surrounding air; hence dew is formed upon the iron or the layer of earth in very large quantities. The water thus obtained is drained off into reservoirs and after clarification is used for drinking.—Scientific American

Mr. J. S. Bartell, Edwardsville, Ill., writes "A few months ago my kidneys became congested. I had severe backache and pain across the kidneys and hips. Foley Kidney Pills promptly cured my backache and corrected the action of my kidneys. This was brought about after my using them for only a few short weeks and I can cheerfully recommend them." Ed. D. Heckerman

Two nests are often constructed in one dingle, and an amusing incident happened a few years ago in one of these places. The hen laid one egg in each nest, and, as it was quite impossible for her to sit on both at once, we did her a good turn by placing one of these eggs in the nest with its corner panion. The result of our kindness was that a collector passed by about two hours afterward and put both eggs in his collecting box.

When I thought the matter over I came to the conclusion that that old buzzard was not half such a fool as we took her to be, and if we had left the eggs as we found them the bird might have had a chance of rearing one youngster. Country Life.

"It is astonishing," remarked a well known authority on Diseases of the skin, "how such a large number of people, especially ladies, are, by attractively written advertisements, induced to purchase some one of the many so-called Beauty Creams now on the market, not knowing, of course, that they mostly contain oily or greasy substances that clog the pores of the skin and are, for that reason, the very worst thing that they could possibly use. My treatment of Pimples, Blackheads, Blotches and all eruptions of the skin, is as follows, and has invariably proved very successful: Wash the face carefully every night before retiring with warm water and a little oat meal tied up in a small cloth bag, then, after drying well, use the following inexpensive and perfectly harmless prescription which can be called at any Drug Store: Clearol 1/2 oz., Ether 1 oz., Alcohol 7 ounces. Use this mixture on the face as often as possible during the day, but use night and morning anyway, allowing it to remain on the face at least ten minutes, then the powdery film may be wiped off. Do not wash the face for some little time after using. By following this simple treatment, you will soon have a clear, Brilliant Complexion."

Dedication at Gettysburg

The Gettysburg Battlefield Memorial Commission, with the approval of the Governor, has fixed Tuesday, September 27, 1910, noon, as the time for the dedication of the State Monument at Gettysburg.

For the occasion, soldiers of Pennsylvania regiments or other organizations which participated in the battle of Gettysburg, can have free transportation to and from Gettysburg (and the public a rate of one and one-half cents per mile each way) from the railroad station in Pennsylvania nearest to the homes of each, tickets to be good going from September 24 to September 27, and good returning to reach original starting point not later than September 30.

To arrange for railroad tickets for soldiers entitled to free transportation, and to provide seats for them at the dedication, each such soldier is requested to send to the Commission at once his full name and postoffice address, together with the name of the regiment and company in which he served, addressed to the Gettysburg Battlefield Memorial Commission, P. O. Box 533, Philadelphia, Pa.

Pennsylvania leads the entire country in the number of dispensaries it has established for the treatment of tuberculosis and the educational campaign against the spread of the disease. This supremacy is strikingly shown in one of the maps in the exhibit.

One hundred and twelve dispensaries have already been established at as many points in the state by the State Department of Health, so successful has the work been and so rapidly has the demand for dispensary treatment increased.

Over 16,000 persons have registered at the dispensaries and over 8000 tuberculosis sufferers were being cared for by these institutions on June 1, and this number is increasing at the rate of about 500 a month, as the people appreciate the value of the work and go to the dispensaries for treatment. These are the patients who for different reasons cannot go to sanatoria. In many cases they are still breadwinners, and as such they especially need the instruction which the dispensary gives as to the necessity of protecting their fellow workmen and the members of their own household from the disease, as well as the care necessary to improve their own condition.

Walnut Grove Campmeeting

The Walnut Grove campmeeting will open August 5 and close the 14th. Rules and rates same as last year except that the boarding is $6 a term and dinner is 25 cents. This advance has been made in order that the best of meals can be served. Many of the best ministers of the East Pa. eldership and persons from different parts of the state will be present. A large number of persons from Saxton and Six Mile Run will attend the camp, which is located six miles from Three Springs. The nearest postoffice is Maddensville. Rev. F. W. McGuire of Saxton is General Manager and he will gladly furnish information in regard to tents, rooms, or any other matter required.
